

Lehigh Valley Center for Independent Living (LVCIL) is in the development stages of their new “S2L” “School to Life” Transition Program. It is a program for students, ages 14-21 with any disability who would like to achieve community or supported living. Participants will explore all aspects of life in the community. The program will feature: mentors, a seminar series covering topics of independent living, including an intensive summer program, goal planning, a stakeholders team, and support for the family. Much of initial work has been with development of the program, literature development, and just spreading the word of the program’s existence. We are also looking for participants and mentors for the program. For more information, please call Seth Hoderewski at 610-770-9781 or email sethhoderewski@lvcil.org.
